Of shepherds and sheep

by Christian Frehner, Switzerland

In the Hebrew Bible or in the Old Testament under 'The Poetic Books' 150 so-called Psalms (from gr. ψαλμός psalmós 'Strings, Song') are included. These are songs, poems, prayers and eulogies in favour of the "Lord", that is, the God of the Jews and later added Christians. Extracts from these psalms are often used to embellish sermons, or to fill unused space on newspaper pages with obituaries. A Psalm that is often and gladly quoted, namely the 23rd, begins as follows (source: Zwingli Bible): "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want. On green pastures he lets me camp, he leads me to my resting place by the water. ...» Admittedly, a beautiful, poetic image, developed here and often used by the authors in the Bible and also in the New Testament - somehow archaic in appearance, and not exactly commonplace in today's age of the Internet, artificial intelligence and smartphones. But unfortunately things are not always as they seem or appear. Hardly ever will a believer start to ring his inner alarm bells when he listens to this psalm with comfort and devotion, because he suddenly realizes that this peaceful image of the shepherd with his sheep is a kind of dark allegory, that is to say a veil. To explain this, let us take a closer and above all neutral look at the picture or parable: What does the image of the flock of sheep stand for, of sheep in general? - Probably not for qualities such as initiative, individualism or independence, but probably much more for collectivism and a pronounced herd instinct, i.e. to be a follower, and of course for a kind of 'lawn or grass mowing' activity and as a supplier of wool, so that the shepherd, for example, can have a warm winter coat woven from it. But the main purpose of a herded flock of sheep is clearly that of a meat supplier. The role or task of the shepherd, for which he is paid by the owner of the flock, is limited to ensuring that as far as possible all the lambs survive, that the herd remains healthy and complete and, where part of the herd is selected for slaughter, that these animals have a good meat and fat content.

Having now established this realistic state of affairs, a critical-thinking person probably automatically leads to the question: 'And now, what does this poetic image and parable, which is so often preached from the pulpit and so fervently absorbed by the faithful as the security and guidance promised by God, actually convey to us, when analysed neutrally and soberly?

The sheep represent the believers, the visitors of churches, synagogues and mosques, the payers of church-institutional fees, but also the believers in science, the self-proclaimed sceptics, the thoughtlessly floating along with the masses as well as the intellectually illiterate etc.

The pastors are the clergymen of all religious-sectarian factions, as well as the innumerable self-proclaimed gurus, masters and experts in religion, politics, doctrine and economy, etc. etc., who are able to make their unproven claims and hypotheses known and to be adored by their followers.

And who is the owner of the herd now? Now that "the Lord", that is, God as the personified creator of the universe, etc., has never existed and 'only' corresponds to a delusion invented by humans, it is therefore the religious or other kind of delusion that exercises control over the brains of the believers and keeps them imprisoned in a kind of schizophrenic, consciousness-comatose state, so to speak 'possesses', whereby the persons concerned are absolutely unaware of their unfree, slave-like humiliated state and instead imagine themselves to be free humans in blind bliss or vain self-righteousness. These 'sheep' are sometimes intentionally kept in conscious darkness, or they do this themselves out of arrogance, arrogance and narrow-mindedness, etc., without the help of others. The sad fact is that all these people in their unconsciously inhabited 'prison' have no idea what delights of real freedom they could enjoy if they were to focus their thoughts and actions exclusively on reality, which means that as consciousness-free people they are responsible for all their thoughts, feelings and actions themselves, instead of ceding their independence and freedom to imaginary delusions. Unfortunately, this human tragedy, which has been going on for thousands of years and which is intensifying steadily due to the unchecked growth of the population, will continue for a long time to come, because the damage or dysfunction that is anchored in the frontal and temporal lobes of the brains of believers and which virtually cements their 'resistance to therapy' cannot be remedied so easily. This requires education over many generations, because genetic anomalies on this scale require corresponding conscious, consistent and targeted efforts over a very long period of time in order to be healed or neutralised.

Unfortunately, this tragedy is further aggravated by the fact that there is not a single indication in world affairs at the moment that there is a trend towards averting the big 'bang' which, according to the universal law of cause and effect, is coming with an ever-increasing roar. This 'bang' can be a single event or several of them, and it is very likely that it will lead to a large part of earthly humanity being transported to the afterlife in an abbreviated procedure, mainly because of the fact that people subject to a belief are unable to recognize the sense of worldwide radical birth control measures, let alone accept them. And so the huge 'flock of sheep', which according to Pleiary data comprises around 96% of earthly humanity, runs towards the edge of a bottomless abyss, hidden beneath an approaching, dark wall of clouds, with its gaze fixed on the prayer rug, the smartphone, the pulpit or the incompetent bellwether. 9.3.2019

The best way

The best way to get along with other people is not to worry about what others are doing, but to take care of all your own needs in a good way and to do something of value yourself.

The new center resident <Dwarf Barbarus> and his big brother <Great Praeses Andreas>

If nothing is too big for the small, nothing is too small for the big.

Viewing an Unknown Flight Object from the FIGU Center

This UFO resp. Unknown Flying Object was first observed in a flyby south over Schmidrüti on July 22nd, 1977, at about 9.00 a.m. by Guido Moosbrugger, Herbert Runkel, H. u. K. Schutzbach and Billy and since then by individual persons sporadically again and again as it flew from the west not very high over Schmidrüti to the east. Recently, the object was moved on 2 and 16 May 2019 on the same trajectory from the centre between 20.45 hrs and 20.50 h also observed by several KG members. On 23 and 25 May, however, the same object, at higher altitudes than usual, apparently flew past in the north as seen from the centre and was observed by Barbara Harnisch, Stefan and Anton Hahnekamp, Tony Quinn and Maarten de Penning. On June 1, at 11:00 p.m., the

This object was observed by Patric Chenux and Billy, and in Fischingen by Pius Meinrad Keller. On June 9, 2019, at 22:17 hrs as darkness falls, Billy observed from the north side of the center how apparently the same object again flew silently from the west and very low-flying along the valley, only to rise diagonally upwards in front of the wooded east hill and disappear eastward over the fir tree tops. Before the object disappeared, which Billy estimated to be about 5-7 meters in size, he was able to take a photo of the very bright yellowish-orange shining object.

First six photos

On 23 May at 21.58 h I was able to take 4 pictures. Stefan and Anton Hahnekamp, Tony Quinn and Maarten de Penning drew the attention of me, Barbara Harnisch, and also watched.

Both times, 23 and 25 May 2019, the object flew silently from west to east

An orange flying object behind the center

On Sunday 14.7.2019 I had night watch. At about 21.45 I was about to go out on the circuit and was just putting on my raincoat and pants when I saw Billy come into the kitchen. I was looking for him because I wanted to give him a message. After I told him what I wanted to say, I noticed that Billy was looking outside; so, curious, I wanted to see what he was looking for. Following his gaze, I could see a strongly orange, round light object on the horizon. Together we went to the kitchen window, after which Billy said after some time: "It is è Flug". But what was strange was the fact that it was not white-yellow, like the usual airplane headlights, but strongly orange, and when I watched the whole thing, I couldn't see any flashing lights, as it is common with airplanes. Even if the light of the headlights was coming directly in our direction, there was no flashing light, as is always the case when planes fly past in the sky around the center and head for Kloten Airport. The lack of a flashing light in the orange light caused me to go outside to take a closer look at the object, because I thought that perhaps the flashing lights could not be seen well through the glass pane of the kitchen windows. When I was outside, however, I could not see any flashing lights, although the flying object, which shines strongly in orange, was clearly visible. Because I thought that under certain circumstances the flashing lights on airplanes could only be clearly visible under certain circumstances, I waited outside to check if there were any flashing lights or not. Billy then came to me outside, but there were still no flashing lights to be seen. So we watched the object floating completely silently under the dark clouds for a long time, which apparently remained stationary under the clouds, but then it suddenly disappeared without a trace, as if the bright orange light had simply switched off. Behind the object there were thick layers of dark clouds, so it couldn't have been a star that could have shone through, and furthermore the orange light was much too intense and too big for a star. Above the object there were also two more dense layers of dark clouds, because it had rained before and was threatening to rain again, but these had not changed even by the sudden disappearance of the orange object.

Well, my first assumption was that the object flew into the clouds and therefore became invisible, which I also told Billy. Suddenly the object appeared again under the clouds, but closer to us and also to the right of the previous position, where the object had previously appeared as a slightly smaller light. At the new location it remained floating for only a short time, after which it suddenly and finally disappeared as before. From the point where the object was first below the clouds, it probably had to climb vertically in a flash to disappear in the clouds and then reappear much closer to us and also to the right of the previous position where it had just appeared. The object apparently had to make a rectangular flight movement, which is absolutely impossible for our modern airplanes. Despite my doubts that it couldn't have been an airplane, I waited for some time, because I wanted to be sure and maybe I could have been mistaken and it could have been an airplane flying around in the clouds. Billy said that aircraft should not simply switch off their position lights and that it was mandatory to keep them on. So we both waited outside until I noticed that no jet or engine noise could be heard, which should have been inevitable, so we waited for a longer time, but even after several minutes everything remained quiet and no aircraft noise of any kind could be heard, which should have been. There was also no halo on the underside of the clouds, which an aircraft headlight would certainly have produced, as I have noticed on several occasions when aircraft flew above the clouds and their headlights penetrated the clouds. Nevertheless, I waited, hoping that if it had been an airplane, it would have had to take the same flight path as the other airplanes, which often fly from the northern horizon in the direction of our center and then have to turn left to the west to head for Kloten airport. Nothing of the sort happened, however, because the orange object did not reappear, but remained disappeared.

Billy and I listened very carefully, but neither jet nor engine noise was audible, nor did we see anything appearing on the normal path of the airplane routes. Aircraft from the north or east usually pass close to the center and not very high in the sky. But effectively nothing happened. Billy then said, correcting his first assumption, that if it had been a plane, it would have had to appear and fly by again long ago. In addition, we should have heard a jet or engine noise long ago, but this was not the case. After Billy spoke his mind, he went back into the house, maybe 10 or 15 minutes after the orange object had disappeared without a trace or a sound. So I also went in with Billy for a short time, but went out again shortly afterwards, because I just wanted to be sure that it hadn't been an airplane after all. I waited outside for about five minutes, after which I heard a jet noise from a plane flying very low. And this airplane that I now saw and heard had a trajectory that was different from the trajectory that the orange object would have had to take if it had been an airplane, because it was coming from a completely different direction than the orange object. This airplane, which I now heard and saw, flew too low and not as high as the orange object. On this aircraft you could see the white headlight and the white-yellow position lights, not only a big and strong orange light like the observed object. So this was definitely not an airplane, and I can say that clearly with regard to my observations regarding the behavior of the orange flying object, contrary to airplanes.

Mind, reason and intellect

The missing values for the majority of the exuberant overpopulation

Only through a clear mind, a sustainable, tangible reason and through a sufficiently high and mature intellect or intellect that has developed to maturity. Intelligentum the reality, its truth and the irrefutability of every reality can be recognized absolutely clearly, as well as every natural law and commandment, which are visible, clearly conscious and also understood in all freedom in the free nature far around the earth with its entire life, as well as as a magnificent universe with luxuriant stars as a being creation in its infinite, wide glory to every collected human being. This leads every reliable person to consciously acquire the best values with regard to personal life and well-being, and to a blessing for all neighbors and everything else that exists. Everything is to be formed solidly in the right way peacefully as well as useful and lastingly, in order to then also implement it and realize it in the best valuable way. But this is impossible for man when he lacks all power and knowledge, good intellect, clear reason and genuine intellect and also all wisdom. But because he makes no effort whatsoever to acquire all the values of understanding, reason and intellect, he remains stupid for the rest of his life, incapable of acquiring all the important, good and solid values of existence, as well as everything very necessary in every conceivable way. This means that the path to wisdom is closed to him for all time and he remains a failure of truth, both in terms of his life seen, but also in terms of all true recognition, perception and all the possibilities that all around in nature show the way to recognize the effective reality and its clear, irrefutable truth, which is to be found only in it, but effectively and absolutely not in any confused belief of a religion, sect, philosophy or other stupid foolishness. If man lacks a right attitude or opinion, or obligatory decisions, then faith is never in demand, but understanding, clear reason, intellect or intelligence, responsibility, wise behaviour, logical action, as well as clarity, sharpness, education and cleverness - and this is brought to bear in modesty and righteousness.

SSSC, 28 April 2019, 12.34 pm, Billy

In politics, a stupid person with a narrow mind is more appreciated than a simple person with a clever mind, who is clear of mind and reason, very wise and therefore full of love and peace; far from all despotism, hatred and the brainless.

The vehement and irrational rejection by the human being with regard to life- and nature-conservation measures to preserve life and nature

(The vehement and irrational rejection of man with regard to life and nature conservation measures)

http://www.figu.org/ch/files/downloads/zeitzeichen/figu\_zeitzeichen\_101.pdf

The majority of the humankind considers the planning of the killing of human beings, the production and distribution of weapons and materials of war as well as the waging of war just as legitimate as torture and the death penalty. This, while the careful contraception with regard to descendants and thus a worldwide birth control is referred to as a felony against the sphere of personal privacy. Also, the preservation of the balance of nature, the fauna and flora as well as the climate and the planet and the rational exploitation and use of the available resources of the Earth come up against vehement and irrational rejection.

The taking up of arms in preparation for killing and the effective acts of war being the actual murder of human beings, is by no means legitimate according to the creational-natural laws and recommendations, as this the human being of the Earth unfortunately sees and believes to understand otherwise, namely that he/she simply – for whatever wrong, egotistical/selfish, jealous, hateful, vindictive, retaliatory, might-greedy, warlike, punitive or other human-unworthy/inhumane and life-hostile justifications or reasons – is entitled to the killing and murdering of fellow human beings. And in this regard, religions and sects play a decisive role, namely through the invention of the imbecilic myth that there is an all-loving god who had created the world, the sun, the stars and everything existing, with which the irrational teaching and gothic tale could take root, that not the laws of nature are the origin of all things, but simply god. And with this such loving god father – who is supposed to be lenient and fair and shall bear the responsibility for everything existent – the wrath of god was also nonsensically and contradictorily thought-up, which takes action against all and everything with harsh punishment, what offends against his directives, commands, decrees and commandments, and as a last sequence in terms of a punishment, even the body's mutilation and the death penalty shall be justified and legitimate. And all this nonsense has already been woven into the education of the children since time immemorial and hammered into them with suggestive persuasive Gewalt, imparted to them as belief and made them dependent on it. Consequently, they are confronted from early on with the religious-sectarian god-lie and with the egoism, the hatred, the revenge and retaliation, death and war as well as selfishness, imperiousness, jealousy and might-behaviour, etc., just as these unvalues are characteristic to god, who – as is drummed into the children – controls and rules in this wise as he likes. Included therein, however, are also envy, lovelessness, unconcernedness, selfishness and irresponsibility towards the value of life, because the whole responsibility is shifted to god, the humanly thought-up imaginary figure of delusion, and the anxiety of the angry and vengeful god does not allow to bear self-responsibility.

The pathological lowly intelligent and simple-minded, illogical and contradictory lie, namely that there is a god who is the goodness and love itself, also legitimises that he alone determines everything and therefore has the sole right to demand punishment, revenge and retribution in many respects for infringement, etc., and indeed even bodily mutilations and death for heterodoxy (believing differently), for delicts, adultery, errors, god-belief apostasy, guilt, unright, felony and infringement, etc., as well as war against hostile or simply human beings, groups and peoples who believe differently. Thus, it is only therethrough, namely through this insanity of the religious-sectarian god-delusion-belief, that the majority of the earthly humankind is struck with anxieties, misery, affliction, hardship and horror, besides the fact that the Earth is a malicious place of horror for large parts of the human beings as a result of torture, war, death and destruction as well as the consequences of globalisation and overpopulation. In addition to this, many heavy strokes of fate will have to be endured, because natural disasters will shake the world which the human being of the Earth has brought about himself/herself, namely by the outcoming effects that are rampant all around due to the irrationally grown overpopulation, wherethrough the laws of nature, the fauna and flora as well as the climate and even the planet itself were destructively afflicted and continue to be tormented.

In the course of this, however, the god-delusion-befallen ones, the god-believers, are of the irrational belief that they could bear everything better if they believe in an imaginary god and pray to him, begging for betterment and for the prevention of all terrible things, as has been the case since time immemorial, when the fore-forefathers thought up an imaginary god in order to angstfully place themselves under his protection, but who shall also help them in every respect, although never any begged- and prayed-for help came from him. Precisely, because god is only a human-thought-up imaginary figment of the imagination out of anxiety, which has neither vitality nor energy or power in it and will also never have them. So, the fantasy-figure of god was devised by the human being in the primeval times and was raised to an invisible pedestal as protector and punisher, from where he is supposed to rule since time immemorial over the human being as an individual and also as a mass in godly love and wisdom, as well as wrathfully and punitively. This was thought up in such a way by the human beings of the Earth, instead of bethinking themselves, their own power and their own abilities and having made an effort for a helpful and useful action in their own wise and in self-initiative. Since they did not do this, however, and they also did not bethink their inner, neutral-positive nature and thus also disregarded the creational-natural laws and recommendations that determined their inner nature, they sought in their angst an imaginary, kindhearted god-father, who should reward them and protect and release them from all evil and terrible things. At the same time, however, in their irrationality and in their unintellect, they also thought up with this imaginary god, a punitive and avenging imaginary-form of god, who, since then, personally punishes the human being, angrily and furiously, for their misbehaviour or for their god-unbelief by acts of retaliation through any 'godly' acts, or lets human beings be persecuted and killed by human beings who have believably fallen for him, and indeed also by religious-terrorism, witch hunts, religious persecution, the murder of believers and religious wars.

Well, god is also only a tin god, like any other tin gods, because he is indeed also only a fantasy-spectre invented by human beings, which instrumentalizes the human being of the Earth – depending on the religion and sect – for its own purposes according to its liking and need, although since time immemorial contradictions could not be avoided, just as they also cannot be avoided today, nor the fact that collectively, entire peoples were brought to reason with Gewalt, death, coercion and with inhumane punishments through war, oppression and enslavement; just as this is still attempted today by the use of religious-sectarian terror. Thus entire tribes and peoples have been exterminated, which – already since time immemorial – has never corresponded to the creational-natural laws and recommendations, because these make it absolutely clear that neither misery brought forth by human beings nor torture, Gewalt, suffering, coercion, death and war make any sense, but to the contrary only love, peace, freedom and harmony. If, however, all the unvalues unworthy of human beings are nevertheless done, then they correspond completely to inhumane Ausartungen that are going wild and that are contrary to the creational-natural volition, which never have any justification and are only carried out by ausgeartet human creatures who have fallen prey to sheer egoism, utter unhumaneness, imperiousness and selfishness, might-greed and all other human- and life-based depravity. If in this respect – as well as elsewhere and near and far – the creational-natural laws and recommendations are maliciously broken and disregarded, and indeed solely out of wrong egotistical, might-greedy, selfish, imperious and avaricious considerations as well as out of wrong thought-feeling-psyche-based impulsations, which – considered in terms of intellect and rationality – are not only absolutely illogical but also utterly perverse and ausgeartet and crassly contradict the true inner creational-natural given nature, then only perverse evil and ausgeartet negativity arises, which can never be legitimised. Precisely in this respect, however, the human being of the Earth is acting selfishly in an ausgeartet kind and wise and behaves in a form, from which he/she sees in his/her self-greed only himself/herself and his/her own advantages, and disregards all humanity and treads it underfoot. Truthly, the humankind of the Earth – at least the majority of the earthly humanity – has thus manoeuvred himself/herself into a state of egoism, of utter unconcernedness, imperiousness, selfishness and consciencelessness, that he/she neither understands nor knows what the high values of the true love, of the peace, of the freedom and harmony effectively are. In fact, he/she can therefore no longer recognise these values at all, and moreover no longer knows what they mean in general, because the relevant terms are only known to him/her from hearsay and from reading, consequently, he/she can no longer really understand them, let alone realise them and bring them to fruition. From this it also results, that the heedful contraception and precautions regarding procreation of offspring is rejected out of purely egotistical and imperious, selfish and irresponsible modes of thought, feeling, action, and behaviour. This, however, is also based therein, due to the fact that it is vehemently rejected out of the same wrong modes of behaviour, to purely personally and privately do something intellect- and rationality-based, which corresponds to the rightness and the overall well-being of the entire humankind, of nature and its fauna and flora as well as the climate and the planet itself. Fundamentally, all and everything good and positive is done purely ausgeartet-egoistically only for one's own person and one's own well-being, and far from any connecting inter-humanly valuable thoughts and feelings for the individual human being and the entire humankind. The wrong and dangerous justification is based on the fact that everything that is of private nature, also should and must remain of private nature, therefore also the excessive begetting of offspring in accordance with one's own free will, and indeed irrespective of whether, with that, due to the machinations of the overpopulation and the catastrophic consequences and terrible Ausartungen proceeding from it, the entire earthly existence, the humankind and all life in general – consequently including nature and its fauna and flora, as well as the climate and even the planet itself, as well as also any life- and survival-possibility – is endangered and ultimately destroyed. From this, precisely from this lowly intelligent and simple-minded view and opinion, which is based on blank ausgeartet egoism, on might-behaviour, imperiousness, selfishness, avarice and all-embracing irresponsibility, a worldwide birth stop and a state-controlled control of births becoming increasingly necessary, is rejected. And all these mentioned unvalues are, in the signs of religions, might and money, also the reason for the fact that the human being of the Earth takes the right, to which he/she is not entitled, to kill, to torture, to murder and massacre, to enslave, to exploit fellow human beings by felonious deeds and actions in the name of an imaginary god and thus with 'godly' provisions, laws and recommendations and all sorts of imbecilic religious dogmas. However, there are also still other inhumane factors involved, such as jealousy, hatred, revenge and pathological craving for retaliation, which in a completely ausgeartet wise are commonplace and know no bounds with the human being of the Earth. These all are, among many other reasons, why the greater part of the earthly humanity considers the planning and carrying out of the killing of human beings, the production and distribution of weapons and the armament of war materials as well as the conducting of wars as legitimate. And it is for the same reasons why the heedful and urgently needed prevention with regard to the procreation of offspring is seen as a purely private matter and thus a worldwide controlled birth-stop is vehemently rejected. And it is once again the same reasons that do not prevent the available resources from being further exploited and squandered by the overpopulation and thus making the controlled use of the Earth's resources impossible for future descendants. So the stated reasons are also the ones which bring about the fact that, all around in the entire nature, in the climate and throughout the planet, the lack of balance cannot be restored. This means that everything that would correspond to the intellect and rationality, in order to again restore the all-around destroyed balance in relation to nature, the fauna and flora, the climate and the planet, which has been completely destroyed by the human being of the Earth out of sheer stupidity and simple-mindedness as well from egoism, avarice, might-behaviour, selfishness, imperiousness and irresponsibility, is seen by human beings of the Earth as unright or even as a felony just as well as a worldwide controlled regulation of births.
